Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's arguments, see remarks (pages 11-16), filed 1/10/08, with respect to claims 1-9 and 20 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of claims 1-9 has been withdrawn. However Examiner maintains the rejection of claims 12-15, because the cited prior art teaches the cited limitations in regard to claims 12-15, and Applicant did not provide any argument regarding the claims 12-15, further the new claims 15-19 are rejected based on ground of 35 USC 101.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

The USPTO "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility" (Official Gazette notice of 22 November 2005), Annex IV, reads as follows:

Descriptive material can be characterized as either "functional descriptive material" or "nonfunctional descriptive material." In this context, "functional descriptive material" consists of data structures and computer programs which impart functionality when employed as a computer component. (The definition of "data structure" is "a physical or logical relationship among data elements, designed to support specific data manipulation functions." The New IEEE Standard Dictionary of Electrical and Electronics Terms 308 (5th ed. 1993).) "Nonfunctional descriptive material" includes but is not limited to music, literary works and a compilation or mere arrangement of data.

When functional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium it becomes structurally and functionally interrelated to the medium and will be statutory in most cases since use of technology permits the function of the descriptive material to be realized. Compare In re Lowry, 32 F.3d 1579, 1583-84, 32 USPQ2d 1031, 1035 (Fed. Cir. 1994) (claim to data structure stored on a computer readable medium that increases computer efficiency held statutory) and Warmerdam, 33 F.3d at 1360-61, 31 USPQ2d at 1759 (claim to computer having a specific data structure stored in memory held statutory product-by-process claim) with Warmerdam, 33 F.3d at 1361, 31 USPQ2d at 1760 (claim to a data structure per se held nonstatutory).

In contrast, a claimed computer-readable medium encoded with a computer program is a computer element which defines structural and functional interrelationships between the computer program and the rest of the computer which permit the computer program's functionality to be realized, and is thus statutory. See Lowry, 32 F.3d at 1583-84, 32 USPQ2d at 1035.

Claims 15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter as follows. Claim 15 defines a software embodying functional descriptive material. However, the claim does not define a computer-readable medium or memory and is thus non-statutory for that reason (i.e., "When functional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium it becomes structurally and functionally interrelated to the medium and will be statutory in most cases since use of technology permits the function of the descriptive material to be realized" – Guidelines Annex IV). That is, the scope of the presently claimed [Software code for execution in a processor in connection with compressed image data reconstruction, the software code stored in a machine-readable medium and comprising] can range from paper on which the program is written, to a program simply contemplated and memorized by a person. The examiner suggests amending the claim to embody the program on "computer-readable medium" or equivalent in order to make the claim statutory. Examiner suggestion "Computer-readable medium encoded with software for reconstruction of compressed image data, the software comprising:" Any amendment to the claim should be commensurate with its corresponding disclosure. Further in claims 14-19, please change "a machine-readable to computer-readable".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yuan (US 5,367,385).

As to claim 12 Yuan provides for identifying a block of pixels containing image data corresponding to an edge having an edge direction (Fig.8a note block 40, see 45 degree edge direction); identifying one of the pixels whose unfiltered image data of a pixel (Fig.8a see pixels in line 98), and outputting the unfiltered image data of the pixel as the respective filtered image data (Fig.8a see pixels in line 98); selecting a directional de-ringing filter having a main direction that corresponds to the edge direction (Fig.8b col.9 lines 24-30) ; and applying the selected directional de-ringing filter to the image data of at least another one of the pixels to generate respective filtered image data (Fig.8b col.9 lines 24-30).

As to claim 14, see the rejection of claim 12. It recites similar limitations as claim 14. Hence it is similarly analyzed and rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yuan (US 5,367,385) in view of Lee (US 6,226,050).

In regard to claim 13, Yuan does not provide for determining whether the image data of a pixel corresponds to an edge sharper than a preset threshold. Lee provide for determining whether the image data of a pixel corresponds to an edge sharper than a preset threshold (col.2 lines 7-14). The prior arts of Yuan and Lee are combinable because they are from same field of endeavor (image processing for reducing boundary artifacts). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at time the invention was made to incorporate the teaching of Lee with the system and method of Yuan. The suggestion/motivation for doing so would have been for reducing ringing noise, and a signal adaptive filter suitable for implementing this method. See the field of the invention.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1- 11 are allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
